Company Description†

Mid Wynd International Investment Trust plc ("the Company") aims to achieve capital and income growth by investing on a worldwide basis. Although the Company aims to provide dividend growth over time, its primary aim is to maximise total returns to shareholders.

Since 1st October 2023, the portfolio is managed by the Lazard Global Quality Growth team. The team aims to achieve capital growth by investing in global stocks, selecting what it considers to be high-quality companies ("Compounders") with specific characteristics. These are companies the team believes will generate high returns on capital, meaning they are efficient at turning capital – the money used to run a business – into cash and profits. These businesses typically reinvest the money they make into their businesses at similarly high returns on capital to help them grow over the long term, potentially making these companies more valuable in the future. Prior to Lazard's appointment, the portfolio was managed by Artemis Investment Management.

† There is no assurance that the Mid Wynd International Investment Trust plc's objectives or performance targets will be achieved.

Commentary

Equity markets worldwide rose in October, as ongoing enthusiasm for artificial intelligence (AI) fueled a tech-driven rally despite uncertainty about the global economic outlook.

- The information technology and health care sectors contributed the most to performance.
- Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing (TSMC) outperformed as robust artificial intelligence (AI) and high-performance computing demand drove record foundry orders and reinforced the company's industry leadership in advanced nodes.
- Thermo Fisher reported better-than-expected earnings for the quarter, with strong organic growth in its Analytical Instruments segment, as the bioprocessing business saw steady improvement despite policy and funding challenges.
- Equifax fell after the company reported lower-than-expected quarterly margins and management lowered fourth quarter margin guidance driven by higher incentive compensation expense and unfavorable mix toward the lower-gross-margin mortgage business. However, the company reported better-than-expected revenues driven mortgages, and we see potential upside in a mortgage recovery as the base of high interest rate mortgages continues to build.
- Intercontinental Exchange, a global operator of regulated exchanges, clearing houses, and listings, fell despite solid earnings, as Mortgage Tech revenues disappointed. We continue to own the company as we believe its strong financial productivity is sustainable and that strength in its data business and opportunities in its mortgage business should continue to improve the company's growth rate and valuation

There were no new buys or complete sales during the period.

Important Information

Risks

The value of your investment may rise or fall, and your capital is at risk.

Any investment in an investment trust involves risk. You should be aware of the following risks when considering investing:

Past performance

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future returns and does not guarantee future results.

The value of your investment

The value of shares, and any income from them, can fall as well as rise and investors may not get back the amount invested.

Market volatility

The value of the Company and any income from it can fall or rise because of movements in stock markets, currencies and interest rates, each of which can move irrationally and be affected unpredictably by diverse factors, including political and economic events.

Emerging and Developing Markets

Emerging and developing markets can face significant political, economic or structural challenges. The portfolio may experience delays in buying, selling and claiming ownership of investments and there is an increased risk that the portfolio may not get back the money invested.

Concentration

In view of the concentrated nature of the portfolio, the level of risk is expected to be higher than for broader based portfolios and the value may be more volatile.

Smaller companies

Securities of smaller companies may be less liquid, and exhibit more volatile returns, than the securities of larger companies.

Currency

The Company's assets may be priced in currencies other than the portfolio base currency. Changes in currency exchange rates can therefore affect the Company's value.

Charges from capital

Where charges are taken wholly or partly out of the Company's capital, distributable income may be increased at the expense of capital, which may constrain or erode capital growth.

Leverage

The Company may operate with a significant amount of leverage. Leverage occurs when the economic exposure created by the use of derivatives is greater than the amount invested. Leverage may result in large fluctuations in the Company's value and therefore entails a high degree of risk including the risk that losses may be substantial.
